Married Men Live Longer, Psychiatrist Asserts

The fact that "Men need women more than women need men" was supported statistically by Dr. Kurt Fantl, psychiatrist, in a lecture given Thursday night at San Pedro High School under sponsorship of the San Pedro Adult School and the Harbor District Mental Health Service. The lecture was third in the forum series "The Family in the Space Age."

Death from illness and injuries among married men was pointed out as being far below the death rate of unmarried men. Divorced persons are top candidates for fatality all along the line, with widowed persons trailing and single persons coming in third, Dr. Fantl stated. If 100 deaths from any cause is given as a basis for comparison, he indicated, then 166 single, 174 widowed and 218 divorced men would die from the same cause while for women the figures would show 116 single, 136 widowed, and 148 divorced women.
